DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Group III (claims 5-10, 12 and 13) in the reply filed on 6-22-04 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 5-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Yoshinaga (US 2002/0050508A1). The intended use of the instantly claimed apparatus is noted, however, the intended use does not patentably distinguish said claimed apparatus over the prior art.

Yoshinaga teaches an instrument and a component constituting an apparatus (Figure 4, (101,102)); machining means (51); welding means (52); and plate supply means (table "moving base" (11)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 12-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yoshinaga (US 2002/0050508A1) as applied to claims 5-10 above, and further in view of Okamoto et al. (US 2002/0153130A1).

Yoshinaga also teaches using numerical control for moving the tool (paragraphs [0030], [0034] and [0035]), but fails to teach that the numerical control was used as tracer means for machining.

Okamoto et al. teaches means for tracing the rotating tool using a numerical controller (paragraph [0077]) and also teaches that it is possible to exchange the rotation tool for joining to the rotation tool for cutting (paragraph [0038]), so it would have been obvious to use the means for tracing on the rotation tool for cutting. At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to combine the numerical control of Okamoto et al. with the friction stir welding apparatus of Yoshinaga, in order to remove the burrs generated by joining in a tracing operation using numerical control.

Conclusion

The prior art of record that is cited as of interest is presented on the form-892.
